The new routes connect major ports in countries such as Egypt, Turkey and Israel, providing a more efficient, reliable maritime logistics corridor between China's northeastern region and the Mediterranean countries, primarily for commodities such as chemicals, automobiles, electromechanical equipment, and mineral resources.

The new services, operated by the MSC, planning to deploy sixteen containerships on weekly basis, each with a capacity of 19,000 teu.

Dalian Port now operates 106 container shipping routes, including 93 international routes that connect over 300 ports in over 160 countries and regions worldwide.
